MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: PRG Meeting on Nuclear Nonproliferation, 10 August 1987

This meeting was not particularly useful. It primarily was aimed at allowing DoD and State to present their disagreements over US nonproliferation policy. There was some discussion of Japanese agreements on plutonium use, US-PRC issues involving nuclear cooperation, and a report due to Congress on physical security of nuclear materials and international trade. Little, if any, substance was discussed. The meeting consisted of a lot of carping between State and DoD over the interagency process and concerns that agreements were being signed with foreign countries before there was agreement within the US Government. Colin Powell asked Bob Dean (NSC Staff) to get Defense and State together, identify issues that cannot be resolved, and return to the PRG with some specific issues to be decided.
